PRICE THREE CENTS

PEACH GLEN IS PURCHASED; NEW FIRM OF GROWERS

M. E. Knouse, Brysonia And A. N. Fohl, Gardners, Purchase Property This Week.

Before the end of this week, one of the largest and most important real estate and business transactions pending in Adams county in the present season will have been consummated, with the transfer of the canning factory, packing houses and warehouses of W. S. Adams, Peach Glen, to a firm consisting of M. E. Knouse, Brysonia, and A. N. Fohl, Gardners.

Mr. Fohl, one of the parties interested in the purchase, today authorized the announcement of the sale, adding that the deed for the properties was being prepared and would be ready for transfer before the end of the present week. While the purchase price was not made public, it is understood to be a "good and fair" consideration for the property.

Homes Included
The cannery, packing and warehouses have been operated by Mr. Adams for a number of years in connection with his large orchard interests, none of which accompany the pending transaction, although one bungalow and two houses near the packing plant will be included in the transfer. The latter properties the new owners propose to demolish, it was stated by Mr. Fohl.

The Adams cannery has been specializing in the packing of beans and apples, the latter being the chief article canned. It is planned by the new owners to increase the capacity of the apple cannery so as to bring production to 500 dozen gallon cans a day.

Austin Fellenbaum, graduate of Gettysburg College, class of 1920, who has been superintendent of Mr. Adams' factory and orchards, will not remain in the employ of the new concern, it is understood, but plans to move from Peach Glen. Mr. Fohl, one of the new owners, will take his position in the factory, it is stated.

The new purchasers are widely known residents of Adams county. Mr. Knouse for many years owned and operated a general store at Brysonia, which he sold two months ago. He also is a director in the First National Bank here, and is prominent in religious work throughout the county.

Maintain Homes
Mr. Fohl has been connected with the C. H. Musselman canning company as superintendent of the Gardners' branch of that concern. He brings into the new partnership a wealth of experience covering a broad period of time. Both Mr. Knouse and Mr. Fohl expect to maintain their present homes.

When operating at full time, the new concern hopes to employ 125 men and women in its canning and packing factories. Some improvements are planned at the canning factory and warehouse, and some new machinery will be installed to provide a greater output in the rush season.

DOG WARNING IS ISSUED; OFFICERS ORDERED TO SHOOT

With spring gardening and planting under way in Gettysburg and in the county, a warning has been issued by George Raffensperger, in charge of the enforcement of the dog laws in Adams county, against allowing dogs to dig up newly-planted lawns and gardens. Mr. Raffensperger called attention to the fact that dogs, whether licensed or not, must always be under control of the owners, and that dogs caught doing damage may be killed by constables and township officers who are charged with that duty.

Fire Company Called To Fight Forest Fire

The Gettysburg Fire Company this afternoon was called upon to fight a small forest fire near the Fairfield road, two miles west of town. The fire is said to have started from the burning of brush on the farm of T. Marshall Mehling by LeRoy Walter. David Starmer is the tenant on the place. When efforts to extinguish the fire seemed futile, a call was put in for the local company, which soon had the blaze under control.

Franklin Rudisill will have public sale of household goods at his home on Fairfield road, near West Confederate avenue, April 2, adv. 1.

Notice: Claude M. Sherman's sale is postponed from March 26 to March 31. adv. 1.

MARQUIS DE URGIJO

The Marquis de Urgijo, son of Spain's wealthiest banker, has taken a position as office boy in the New York offices of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. Despite his wealth, chauffeurs and valets, the young Marquis will learn American banking methods from the bottom of the ladder.

G-BURG FOLDERS ATTRACT PRAISE

Chambers Of Commerce And Various Tour Associations Express Favorable Comment on Pamphlets.

Commendatory comments from all parts of the state are pouring into the Chamber of Commerce office, relative to the new eight page folder recently issued by the chamber advertising Gettysburg as a natural beauty spot and educational center for prospective tourists.

"It is one of the most attractive folders that has come into the Capital Tour office for a long time," writes R. V. Alexander, secretary of the association. "I want to congratulate you upon the make-up and information that your new folder contains," is the expression of F. H. Ankeney, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce. "It is an especially fine piece of work," writes George B. Schuyler, assistant secretary of the Williamsport Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Schuyler also requested a number of the folders for display purposes in the Lycoming hotel information desk.

FINISH ANNEX IN 85 WORKING DAYS

$250,000 Addition to Hotel Gettysburg to be Built by Austin Company, of Cleveland.

WILL RUSH WORK

The new $250,000 annex to the Hotel Gettysburg will be completed within 85 working days, according to a provision in the contract, awarded last Friday to the Austin Company, one of the largest firms of industrial engineers and builders in the country. This announcement was made this morning by Henry M. Scharf, manager of the local hotel.

The contract specifically calls for delivery of the completed annex to Manager Scharf within 85 working days from last Friday. This time does not include Sundays or holidays, or rainy days, until the roof has been placed on the annex. This is perhaps a record for construction work in Gettysburg.

Manager Is Here
The Austin Company, which has branch offices in most of the principal cities throughout the country, will handle the local contract from its Philadelphia office, of which Charles E. Covell is manager. Mr. Covell was in town today going over the ground-work for the construction work which is to follow.

A. O. Larson will be the superintendent in charge of the construction of the annex, and announcement has been made that all available local labor will be used in the course of the building operations. Building equipment and materials are now being shipped here and work is expected to follow immediately.

Cinder Block and Steel
The building will be of cinder block and steel, covered with stucco, so as to conform with the present building of the Hotel Gettysburg. While the contract calls for completion of the work in 85 working days, Mr. Covell this morning predicted that the additional rooms in the annex will be ready for occupancy before the tourist season gets under way. The Austin Company, he said, has made an enviable record for itself in rapid building operations elsewhere. The firm has erected buildings in Harrisburg, York and Cumberland, in this vicinity.

The steel work for the annex has been completed, and a general outline of what the completed building will resemble can already be secured. The annex will house, besides sixty or more sleeping rooms, a large auditorium, gymnasium and store rooms, the latter facing on Carlisle street.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Byron McBeth, Gardners, R. 1, was admitted to the Warner hospital Tuesday afternoon and operated upon today for appendicitis.

Finding of War Relics Bears Mute Testimony to Stirring Bit of War Time Drama Enacted Here in '63

A dashing Confederate general, a spirited horse, a hurried departure—all are bound up in an interesting relic of the Battle of Gettysburg, which has come to light after having been forgotten for many years.

A rapidly rotting, worm-eaten piece of wood in which is imbedded a rusted staple and clasp, attached to which is a short piece of stiff, frayed black leather—bears mute testimony to a stirring little bit of war-time drama which was enacted in Gettysburg, while the Confederates were in possession of the town back in '63.

With the cutting down of a large gnarled maple tree on East Middle street, in front of the home of Mrs. Mattie Howard, the story told years ago about the gallant and dashing Confederate officer was once more passed on for the benefit of succeeding generations.

Tree Is Felled
When the tree was felled, about four feet from the base of the huge trunk, woodchoppers struck the staple, imbedded six inches in the fast-decaying wood, and attached to the piece of iron, a piece of leather strap, which extended out through the bark about an inch.

Older residents recall that years ago the strap was much longer, that it hung down the trunk of the tree for several inches, but that in recent years it had been almost swallowed up by the great maple as the tree added layer upon layer of wood to its base with each succeeding year.

With the uncovering of the strap and staple, the story is retold by persons, who lived in Gettysburg at the time of the Confederate invasion, of how a famous southern general, without waiting to unhitch his horse from the tree, had drawn his sword and with one downward stroke severed the leather thong by which his steed was tied.

General Early is accredited with being the officer who, in his haste to leave, as the tide of battle turned from what apparently was a Confederate victory to an overwhelming defeat, cut his horse loose from the tree and rode to take command of his troops, and if possible turn the tide of battle.

Dashing General
It is recounted how the dashing officer, resplendent in his uniform of grey, literally hurled himself from his headquarters on East Middle street, crossed the pavement in a few strides, leaped to the back of his vivacious horse, and with a single stroke of his unsheathed sword cut the strap with which he had tied his charger to the maple.

In a flash, his coal-black horse was away, its nose lifted high in anticipation of what eventually became the last fight of the memorable battle here, culminating in the evacuation of Gettysburg by the troops of General Lee, and the ultimate fall of the Confederacy.

The piece of wood in which the staple and strap are imbedded is being preserved by Charles Wilson, East Middle street, county detective, who occupies a house on the site of General Early's headquarters.

125 Chicagoans To Visit Here

In a special train, consisting of seven coaches, including diners, sleepers and observation cars, one hundred and twenty-five pupils of the New Trier High School, Chicago, will visit Gettysburg and its historic battlefield on Sunday, April 5.

The pupils are leaving Chicago at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, arriving in Harrisburg the following morning. The special train will bring the young men and young women to Gettysburg, April 5, arriving here at 10 a. m. After spending the day on the battlefield, the party will return to Harrisburg, leaving from there for Washington, D. C., where the pupils will visit the national capital. They are leaving Washington April 9 on the return trip to Chicago.

Officials of the Gettysburg and Harrisburg branch of the Reading railroad company here who made the above announcement today also stated that on May 30, July 19 and August 16, special one-day excursions will be run here from Bethlehem, and on May 30 and September 6 special excursion rates will prevail from Philadelphia to Gettysburg.

MRS. BLOCHER IS BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Jane Livingston Blocher, widow of C. A. Blocher, prominent jeweler of Gettysburg, who died at her home on West Middle street, Sunday morning, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house. Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James Lutheran church, of which the deceased was a member, assisted by the Rev. Dr. A. R. Steck, former pastor of St. James Lutheran church, was in charge of the services, which were largely attended. Interment was made in the family lot in Evergreen cemetery.

Pallbearers were Murray Sheads, Charles Troxell, Howard C. Hartley, J. Harry Holtzworth, J. Elmer Musselman and C. K. Gilbert.

Simmons Introduces World-Wide Traveler

Millard B. Simmons, secretary of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce, was selected to introduce Felix Shay, president of the American Business Managers Institute, to more than 1700 members of the Philadelphia Forum, the Edward Bok Foundation at the Academy of Music, Monday evening. Mr. Shay recently returned from a two years' overland trip from Cairo to Capetown and a recent issue of a nationally prominent publication devoted its entire edition to Mr. Shay's account of his experiences. Mr. Simmons was formerly associated with Mr. Shay in an advertising enterprise, in addition to an intimate personal friendship of many years standing. Mr. Simmons returned from Philadelphia Tuesday.

MRS. ROY E. ZINN SINGS AT SCHOOL

Singing at the morning exercises at the Gettysburg High School assembly, Mrs. Roy E. Zinn, Hanover street, a graduate of high school, scored a decided hit. Mrs. Zinn sang "What's in the Air?" by Eden; "Butterfly," by Wood, and "Come Down to Kew," by Deis, and as an encore, "In Blossom Time," by Needham.

HEAR ARGUMENTS ON ROAD CHANGE

Secretary Paul D. Wright Says Road Will Not Be Placed On Old Carlisle Road.

HEAR BOTH SIDES

Arguments for and against changing the route of road 41 of the state's highway system, between Bendersville, in this county, and Mt. Holly Springs, in Cumberland county, were heard by Secretary Paul D. Wright in Harrisburg, Tuesday afternoon.

Although the argument started out as a three-sided affair, proponents of a route from near Idaville through Centre Mills and Table Rock, joining the Biglerville road, just north of town, were soon informed by Secretary Wright that it was impossible to consider changing route 41 so as to place it on what was formerly the old Carlisle road.

The decision of the secretary narrowed the fight down to the supporters of the present road, known as route 41, which starts at Bendersville and passes through Aspers, Gardners and Idaville, and those who favor changing the route so as to take it from Bendersville through Mt. Tabor and Peach Glen to Idaville.

However, Elson G. Lower, of Table Rock, Adams county commissioner, was allowed to present the claims of the old Carlisle road for improvement, but the secretary informed him that it was impossible to consider building a hard surface road on that route this summer.

Dennis Asper, of Aspers, presented arguments in behalf of the present route, which has been on the state highway's system for fourteen years, and which the department has under contemplation for improvement this year. Mr. Asper pointed to the numerous towns along the route, the many people it serves, the industries, orchards and the valuation of properties.

Attorney Hull, of the firm of Snyder, Miller & Hull, Harrisburg, was the spokesman for the group of proponents in favor of the road through Mt. Tabor. W. S. Adams, Peach Glen, was the nominal head of this group. Attorney Hull presented figures showing the amount of automobile traffic over the Mt. Tabor road, and also pointed out that by relocating the road over this northern route it would be carried over less tortuous country and eliminate several grade crossings, which exist on route 41 as it is now laid out.

HOLD INQUESTS INTO FATALITY

Coroner to Conduct Inquest This Evening Into Death of Boy; Result of Auto Accident.

R. E. Lee Hutchins, Westminster, coroner of Carroll county, has announced that he will hold an inquest this evening at 6 o'clock at the Charles Carroll schoolhouse, into the death of Robert Lewis Lawyer, 15-year-old high school boy, of near Silver Run, who was fatally injured when struck by an automobile in front of the school last Friday afternoon. The coroner already has viewed the body and conducted a preliminary investigation.

The driver of the sedan which struck the boy on the incline in front of Charles Carroll school is reported to be Miss Hullenhouer, a school teacher at Hampstead, who resides at Reisterstown and who was returning with a party of four friends from a trip to Gettysburg. The machine was proceeding in the direction of Westminster.

Funeral services for young Lawyer were held Monday afternoon from his late home, conducted by the Rev. A. G. Wolfe pastor of the Silver Run Lutheran church. Interment was at Silver Run.

Eight members of the Sophomore class of Charles Carroll school of which the dead youth was a member acted as pallbearers. They were: Paul Bankert, Ellis Cover, Milton Hill, Charles Bankert, Willard Cratin, William Crouse, Ralph Bankert and John Dehoff.

DEATH MYSTERY

MRS. MARIE H. TURNER

Mrs. Marie Husted Turner, first wife of Roy Turner, now being held in Kansas City, Mo., in connection with the death of Mrs. Dora Gage, in whose body traces of strychnine were said to have been found, died several years ago by drowning while canoeing with her husband. Turner at that time collected $17,000 on her insurance, and it is believed he was chief beneficiary in Mrs. Gage's $5,000 insurance policy. Turner was found in Mrs. Gage's hotel apartment at the time of her death.

SENIORS GIVE PLAY THURSDAY

"Just Out of College" to be Presented by Graduating Class of High School; Large Cast.

Practices have been completed and the cast is ready for the raising of the curtain on the farcical comedy, "Just Out of College," a George Ade play, to be presented at the Lincoln Way theater, Thursday evening, by members of the senior class of the Gettysburg High School.

A number of good seats are still available, it was announced today, and reservations may be made at the high school until the night of the performance when the chart will be opened at the theater. With the proceeds, the seniors will help finance the annual trip of the graduating class to Washington, D. C.

"Just Out of College" is brim full of humorous lines and funny situations, and the cast has been chosen with such discrimination that each actor seems cast for his particular part, according to persons who have witnessed the rehearsals, which have been in charge of Miss Helen Cope, English instructor at the high school.

'WHITE WAY' IS ASSURED; $5000 IS SUBSCRIBED

Committee Meets With Unusual Success In Initial Solicitations in Town.

So generous have been the amounts pledged for the proposed "white way" for Gettysburg that the project now gives promise of becoming a "real reality," as one member of the committee expressed it.

Personal solicitation among selected business men of Gettysburg by members of the "white way" committee, without the customary fanfare of publicity, has netted more than $5,000, members of the committee stated this morning.

Several members of the committee in charge of the solicitation have exceeded their quotas, which when set were purposely placed high, anticipating refusals of the amounts fixed for the purpose of the campaign.

$5000 Is Subscribed
With more than $5,000 at hand, some in pledges, but the most in cash and checks, approximately one-third of the work in raising enough money to pay for the standards and their installation is finished, which is more than gratifying to the committee.

While it is expected that the cost of the equipment and installation will not be quite $15,000, that figure has been set as the goal by the solicitors.

Further reports from those in charge of the personal solicitations will be made to John W. Brehm, chairman of the "white way" committee, tonight, and on Friday evening a meeting of the "white way" committee and the directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be held, at which time it is hoped to have reached the two-thirds mark in the campaign.

As previously stated, no bids for the work of installing a white way in Gettysburg are to be invited until the full sum believed necessary to pay for the completion of the project has been subscribed. No bids will be let until the borough council gives its approval to the proposition and further promises to maintain the lighting of the system after its installation, the committee has promised.

Little Opposition
Some opposition to the proposed "white way" from one or two members of the council is predicted by members of the committee, although, with the majority of the councilmen (Continued on Second Page)

LOCAL PEOPLE AT CHARTER AFFAIR

A number of residents of Gettysburg and Adams county were in Harrisburg this afternoon at 3 o'clock when the original charter that William Penn granted to the province of Pennsylvania in 1682 was turned over to the Commonwealth to be placed among other precious documents in the state's archives.

Albert Cook Meyers, Philadelphia, a native Adams county, who was instrumental in marking the spot of the pioneer dwelling of Hanson Steelman, at Zora, and Chief Strongwolf, a full-blooded Indian, who assisted in the dedication of the Steelman marker, were scheduled for parts on the program in the exercises at Harrisburg.

Trooper Russell W. Frutchey, of the local substation of the state police, was assigned to special detail in Harrisburg for the day.

Music Committee Adopts Program

Constitution and by-laws were adopted, Felix G. Robinson was elected chairman and Miss Mary Ramer was elected secretary-treasurer of the organization, at a meeting of the Gettysburg Music Week committee held in the parlors of the Eagle Hotel Tuesday evening. A program for national music week was adopted but will not be made public at this time, pending negotiations with several prominent artists.

STOCK REPORT

(By Associated Press.)
New York, March 25.—Rallying tendencies marked the opening of today's stock market as the distribution of buying orders for representative industrials caused these prices to rebound one to four points. A temporary check was felt soon after the opening, but strong buying support made its appearance and the market swung sharply upward around noon. Call money opened at three and one-half per cent.

The former Princess Xenia of Russia, now the wife of William of the "tin plate" king, is seriously ill in New York from complications that followed the birth of her first baby. A riot was started in the French Chamber of Deputies when Premier Edouard Herriot said that France was determined to carry out its programme of reparations schools for Alsace. The condition of Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, who has been ill for several weeks, has become so grave that a triumvirate has been suggested to take over the Government.

FIREMEN MEET IN STROUDSBURG

Monroe County City Is Chosen Convention City of State Firemen's Association.

Stroudsburg, Monroe county, was chosen for the 1925 convention of the State Firemen's Association at a meeting of the executive committee in Harrisburg, Tuesday afternoon. E. E. Beideman, former lieutenant governor, and president of the firemen's organization, presided.

James B. Aumen, chief of the Gettysburg company, president of the Southeastern Firemen's Association, and first vice president of the state association, was unable to attend the meeting of the executive committee, but was informed immediately of the board's action.

The convention, which last year was held at Erie, will meet at Stroudsburg October 6 to 9, and a special meeting of the Gettysburg company will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock to decide if the local firemen shall attend the convention in a body.

JUDGE IMPOSES REAL SPANKING ON TWO YOUTHS

(By Associated Press.) Kansas City, Kansas, March 25.—Imposing an old fashioned spanking as the penalty for two boys who had "played hooky," Judge Henry Meade himself used "the rod" which was a Congressional record wrapped tightly in a paper covering.

"That's the first real use I ever found for a Congressional record," the judge commented.

The names of the boys were withheld.

PATIENT EMERGES FROM COMA STATE, ATTACKS NURSES

(By Associated Press.) Kerney, New Jersey, March 25.—Peter Granato suddenly emerged from a 36-hour coma in the West Hudson hospital today in a maniacal state, tried to strangle three nurses, hurled a patient in a critical condition from an operation out of his bed and after a 25 minute free-for-all fight with three nurses and two patients leaped through the glass of a rear door and fled in night attire. He was later recaptured.

BREAK UP GANG OF BOND THIEVES

(By Associated Press.) New York, March 25.—The arrest of six men today as members of gangs that have preyed upon Wall street bond and brokerage houses revealed that the bands employed sleight of hand experts to steal securities from messenger boys in crowded trains and elevated trains, the police said.

The men are charged with the theft of securities of a total value of more than $200,000. The messenger boys have been absolved of blame and securities valued at $50,000 have already been recovered.

RESIDENT OF TWO TAVERNS PASSES

Mrs. Mary Ellen Sherman Dies Tuesday Evening From Complication of Diseases; Aged 66.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Sherman, widow of Jacob Sherman, died at the home of her son, Claude M. Sherman, Two Taverns, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening from a complication of diseases. She was aged 66 years.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Lewis and Elizabeth Miller. Her husband preceded her in death five years ago. She has since been residing with her son, who survives, together with one brother, L. D. Miller, San Diego, California.

Mrs. Sherman was a member of Grace Lutheran Church, Two Taverns, for a number of years, and was active in the Ladies' Aid Society of that congregation.

Brief funeral services from her late home Friday morning at 10 o'clock, with further services from Grace Lutheran Church, the Rev. J. I. Hummer officiating. Interment in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Chicago, expressed their congratulations upon the make-up and information value in the folder and announced that the folders would be used to good advantage for Gettysburg in their information bureau for tourists.

"The key to the insignia painted on telephone poles along the routes, the main highways, etc., in the Gettysburg folder are correct to date and the work is remarkably well done," is the comment from the Shenandoah Valley Inc., of Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Numerous other favorable expressions of congratulations have been received by local men, the Chamber office here, and by Rand McNally company, of Chicago, which have been forwarded here for perusal. The folder is attracting more than usual attention wherever it has been sent.

HEAR ARGUMENTS

hearing. The highway commissioner took the matter under advisement, while department engineers were making an exhaustive study of the situation.

The Adams county board of commissioners, one member of the Cumberland county board, State Senators Bonbrake, of the Adams-Franklin district, and Culbertson, of Cumberland county, and persons interested in the hearing were present at the commissioner's office.

Mr. Wright said that this was a primary system highway, and that these primary system highways are being built by all the people of the state for the use of all the people of the state; consequently the interest of all the people of the state take priority over local interests.

It was shown that only four or five per cent of the use of the road was by local people, and it was also made clear that local wealth will not influence the department's decision. In this day, rich and poor alike travel in automobiles, it was stated, and it is they who maintain the highways; consequently the wealth of the people in the small communities along the road will have little effect on the decision, it is understood.

TEST NEW FIRE PIECE TONIGHT

Hook and Ladder Apparatus Expected to Top Highest Building in Town; Will be Motorized.

Tests of the hook and ladder apparatus, purchased from the Hanover Fire Company, No. 1, by the Gettysburg company, and brought here Tuesday afternoon, will be held this evening at 6:30 o'clock in front of the engine house on East Middle street.

A preliminary test was held Tuesday afternoon after the equipment had been brought here, when the aerial ladder was raised to a height of 65 feet, with indications that an additional length of 10 feet can be obtained.

It is believed that when the aerial ladder is extended to its utmost it will top the highest building in town. One of the more daring members of the local company climbed the ladder Tuesday afternoon, and at the height of 65 feet, he was above the spire on the Methodist Episcopal Church, across the street from the fire engine house.

To Be Motorized

After the test tonight, the new piece of equipment will be stored at the Sure Foot Heel and Rubber Company shed, North Washington street, until satisfactory arrangements can be made to house it with the other apparatus at the fire engine house.

The local company plans to motorize the newest piece of apparatus, which heretofore was a horse-drawn affair. The ladders were made by the LaFrance company, and the machine is said to be in an excellent state of repair.

Funds for the purchase of the apparatus and the cost of having it motorized are in the fire company's treasury, and no public drive for funds will be made, members of the company emphasized.

GIRL MURDERER COMPOSED AFTER FAINTING SPELL

(By Associated Press.)

San Francisco, March 25.—Dorothy Ellingson, 16-year-old girl who shot her mother to death in the morning and danced that night, Tuesday came into court fully composed after her fall to the floor in a faint at the noon recess of her trial Monday on a charge of murder.

Miss Ellingson Monday saw six jurors picked to pass on her fate, five men and a woman being selected. The sixteen-year-old matricide had hoped for a jury of elderly men and the result Monday was to her liking as the only woman was passed temporarily.

WHITE WAY

apparently in favor of the project, it is expected that the minority will be over-ridden.

Throughout the town little opposition is heard to the project of lighting Chambersburg and York streets, from the Meade and High School buildings respectively, to Center Square, and one block from the oval on Baltimore and Carlisle streets, by the most modern method of street illumination, according to members of the "white way" committee, who have been sounding out public opinion by personal contact.

To help boost the project, the Chamber of Commerce has placed in store windows and prominent places throughout the town signs, showing a section of a street illuminated by the single-standard units, which are planned for Gettysburg. At the top of the attractive signs is the caption, "Let's Get Together to Help Our City," and below the street scene is the inscription: "Boost for the New Street Lights. Up-to-date street lighting will advertise our city, arouse civic pride, promote cleanliness, beautify our streets, stimulate business, lessen crime, increase real estate values, decrease traffic accidents. Let's invest."

It is learned from a member of the committee that authorities at Gettysburg College are watching the action of Gettysburg in the matter of the proposed "white way." If favorable action follows, the college, it is understood, plans a "white way" on its campus.

She smiled rather sadly. "I love London. But I choose to stay at my little retreat among the old beech trees. I have not come to London since last summer."

"And you have no inclination to play in London—to forget Beconsfield for a day?" he asked. "Of course, now you are here."

"I do not know anyone in London now," she said. "I have an apartment here—one which I had when I first came to England."

"Come to England?" He inquired when, without using the words.

"Yes, three years ago. I think it must have been three centuries."

She sat for a long time thinking, and the coming and going of the waitress with check and change did not interrupt her thought. Peter believed that she was debating something; therefore he said, "Life—even little life—the pleasures—the decent pleasures—well, they ought to be seized."

"You have a sentient mind," she said, awakened.

"Then do it, whatever it is," he said. "There are two kinds of persons in the world—the minus persons and the plus persons, negative folks and positive folks. You notice I say folks; I am from America."

"So am I," she said.

"Well, do it," said Peter, referring to the undisclosed problem.

"Perhaps I have shut myself up too much," she said reflectively. "I did not know how much I loved to see human beings—just see them sitting here and there, walking in the street, jostling each other, so various, so like—"

"Unsolved riddles."

She looked into his face long and as if conducting a search.

"I want to stay in London for a few days," she said at last, shaking her gloves as if to express the thrill it would give her.

"Why not?" asked Peter. "Even if staying in London is the hazardous business which you seem to think it is, no one will know."

He waited.

"Except me," he said.

Her eyelids narrowed almost imperceptibly as she answered. "But dozens of persons claim your time here. It is, to use your expression, known that you are in London."

"No, no, no," protested DeWolfe, impulsively. "Not a soul."

She drew on her gloves.

"I think I will stay in London," she said, and Peter thought he heard her murmur under her breath, "God forgive me."

CHAPTER IV

He was reckoned a shrewd player of life. Men who knew Peter DeWolfe best say that if he left his traveling bag on the sidewalk on Fifth avenue while he did some shopping within some store, it was only because he had estimated carefully the psychology of any thief and concluded that one could depend upon human nature to believe that luggage sitting alone on the pavement was placed there as a trap. Peter always found his bag where he had left it.

This is said because, unless some complex reasoning and calculation of the same kind can be applied to his conduct, it is necessary to say he went blind into love of woman.

"A few—a very few—men—and fewer women," Peter said once in a letter, "know just how near the top of the world can be reached by the adventure of free days together where there are no hours, and time springs in magic jumps from noon to next day-light perhaps, and the world is a playground and a city is your toy and mankind is the ultimate friend of both of you. Unfortunately," he added, "the men who have the quality of greatness—to see that such a companionship over a span of hours is a greater accomplishment than a life in a law office or the presidency of some blooming bank, are few. Those who ever find the girl are fewer. And those who can prove some essential quality of a gentleman and a whole man needed to walk that delicious tightrope up above the moon, without taking a vulgar step into space with a nasty crash on landing, are fewest of all."

He may have been demonstrating these words. But apparently he had abandoned his inquiry into the mystery of past and future. He had abandoned suspicion of her or curiosity about her life, though ever and again he found her glancing around with the unexpected fear in her dark eyes, as if she expected to meet the eyes of recognition or find some fiend walking softly along behind. Outwardly he had given over all but one inquiry, and that was the exploration of the heart and mind and soul of Brena Selcous.

Just when he had shelled his first purpose, awakened by Benham's challenge, and when he wiped from his mind the memory of his one moment of dread of this girl, which, of course, might be traceable to Muriel's extraordinary and tragic warning, perhaps Peter himself could not have told. It might have been at the moment when, after their first evening of strolling aimlessly through the mystery of the symbolic fog with their selves reaching toward one another, they had perched like two ravens on the pediment of Trafalgar monument, suppers, content and watching the blurred lights of one motor omnibus after another move like luminous fish in cloudy water.

"What time is it?" Peter had asked, listening in vain for the great bell of St. Paul's.

Brena Selcous, sitting on her own coat, drew back the loose sleeve of her white silk waist from her rounded cream-colored wrist and, after a glance at her watch, had said, "It is after two. I am hungry and I am cold."

Peter had said quickly, "Perhaps it is my fault. But you wouldn't go to the theater or the cafes. How could I deal with any one who stubbornly insists upon exploring alleys and arcades and the banking district and Hyde park until an old campaigner's legs are almost worn out?"

"You couldn't."

"I shall find a place now and I shall like to see you eat," he had said, jumping up. "There are some persons, after all, who give us delight when they eat. Did you ever see an old French peasant woman who was really fond of animals feeding them? Why, her brown wrinkled face has a smile like a lighthouse! And I can imagine wearing that smile when one's own children are over their bowls of gruel. Yes, I shall like to see you eat. I am sure. I would like it still better if I had planted and harvested or caught everything which was put before you. But that cannot very well be, because I'm not a farmer or a trapper or Izak Walton—only a New York idler. Besides, Trafalgar square has no soil for turnips, no brook trout, no pheasants."

She had looked up with a wistful smile. "Who is pleased when you eat?"

"Nobody," he said. "You see I am an orphan. There is an old waiter at the club. I forgot him. He rubs his hands when I am hungry, but for all I know it is because the palms itch. He waited on my father—the banker—and he looks like a shaven Memphis tophel. That's all I can remember."

"You may come with me, then, to my chambers," she had said. "We can stop on the way—goodness knows where—but somewhere and get eggs and butter and cheese and milk. We'll go there."

"Can you cook?" he had exclaimed.

"Oh, no. Not at all. Does that make any difference?"

"Why should it?" Peter had inquired with sincerity. He had come to the point of departure from his first ideas of his destined relationship with Brena Selcous.

In the days which had flowed on, Peter's coming and going at the new hotel to which he had moved so that no one might attach themselves to him, attracted the attention of the doorman with the worn literary, brass buttons and chronic apoplexy. "A very peculiar young 'un," he had said to the porter. "A very odd 'airpin! E's in an' out at half hours. I think 'e's gaming."

Perhaps he was. That might have been how he began. But the delight of a concentrated nothing-to-do settled over the two and Peter's steamer at last left the dock at Liverpool with American soldiers blaspheming between decks like a swarm of hornets returning to their hive and a purser scratching his head over the name of one DeWolfe, who was printed on the passenger list but did not claim his telegram. Peter had lost himself and, like a runaway child, he was glad of it. There was only this difference—for Peter no one but his lawyers would make a search.

If one desires to know how far the breaking down of conventions had gone, it is only necessary to point out that upon one occasion where a laughing Sunday crowd had gathered about a hectic man preaching revolution from a stepladder in Hyde park, Peter had sat down with the girl to listen. The sunlight was comfortable, the voice of the orator rose and broke with the regularity of waves upon a long warm beach, and Peter, dropping back with his head on the grass, watched a silver airplane up from Hendon wheel about like a gray beetle who couldn't decide where to light, until he fell asleep.

When he awoke he was generating apologies. He intended to say that Brena and he, like fairy folk, had acquired the magic exemption from sleep but that, of course, occasionally—

WILLIAMSPORT DEFEATS YORK

Lycoming County Aggregation Stops York Five in Sensational Game 32 to 27 Tuesday.

Lebanon, March 25.—Performing like champions the marvelous cage pentagon of Williamsport High School gained a 32 to 27 decision over the York High School cagers here Tuesday evening in the Lebanon High School gymnasium in one of the hardest-fought schoolboy games waged in the state this season. With the Williamsport victory not only goes the coveted Central Pennsylvania league championship, but it also gives the Cherry and White passers the right to compete in the Penn State basketball tournament at State College, Friday and Saturday of this week. York High won the District No. 3 of the P. I. A. A. championship by defeating Lancaster High School sometime ago, and Williamsport gained the same honor in its district, No. 4.

The loose and ragged play of the York High School five in the first half was largely responsible for the Orange and Blue defeat. The first half started with Helfrich caging a spectacular long shot for York. Williamsport then scored fourteen points before York added another field basket to its score. The Shirey brothers and Good ran wild under the basket during the Williamsport rampage.

NEW BOOKLET IS AID TO FARMERS

Topographic and Geographic Survey of Adams County Prepared by Noted Experts.

R. E. Underwood, county farm agent, has received for free distribution 500 copies of a topographic and geographic survey of Adams county, prepared by A. L. Patrick and H. H. Bennett, of the Pennsylvania state department of forests and waters.

The bulletin gives descriptions of the 27 different kinds of soil found in the county, together with their relation to agriculture. With each booklet is a map, showing, in different colors, where each type of soil is found.

"We feel that this bulletin should be in the hands of every farmer and fruit grower in the county," Mr. Underwood said. "With the aid of the map and the booklet many of the soil problems which have been troubling farmers for years can be solved."

The booklets and maps may be had by calling at the farm bureau office at the court house. If the present supply becomes exhausted, additional copies will be secured, Mr. Underwood stated.

LABOR A BIT 'SPOTTY' HERE

Slump Reported in and Around Mines in Johnstown District, Says Official Survey.

Common labor conditions in Pennsylvania were "spotty" during the first two weeks in March, although several sections reported a number of placements of this type of help statements of state employment offices to the Department of Labor and Industry disclosed. Favorable weather conditions in some sections absorbed some of the surplus which has prevailed throughout the winter.

The weather also has permitted resumption of building and construction work giving employment to a number of skilled mechanics in the building trades. Much activity in this line is forecast by the various offices, for the spring and summer. Demand for skilled workers in the metal and machinery industries continued good and a number of placements were reported.

A "slump" in employment in and around mines in the Johnstown district was reported, some of the major operations only working from one to four days a week. A surplus of miners continued in the Pittsburgh district while in the anthracite region Scranton declared "more farm hands were being received by a number of offices."

Outside of requests for institutional workers the demand for domestic and personal service help was reported as slow with a surplus in most cities. Applicants for clerical work still continued to exceed the demand.

Circumstances never made the man do right who didn't do right in spite of them.—Kernahas.

ROY W. BREAM

CHAPMAN PICKS HIS OWN JURY

(By Associated Press.) Hartford, Conn., March 25.—Gerald Chapman, spectacular bad-man, continued his fight today against a farmer dominated jury to sit in judgment on an indictment charging him with the murder of a patrolman in New Britain, last October.

Half an hour after court had opened today, the second day of the murder trial, a sixth juror had been chosen.

Chapman, who had been inspecting one potential juror from under his lowered brow, curtly shook his head when counsel turned to him. So this juror was challenged preemptively.

Chapman looked very natty in a freshly pressed suit as he slumped into a chair in the midst of his counsel.

—to regain Strength

—brings joy to you and your friends.

EVERY man, woman and child wants to have strength and correct weight. It means the joy of living. To be minus strength and underweight often proves low fighting power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body.

More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. aids Nature in building them by the million! There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S.S.S. today. JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

TULIPS

Bulbs I planted in the fall,
Covered them, and that was all;
Bitter blew the wind that day
As I smoothed the bed of clay.
But I whispered: "In the spring
This will be a lovely thing."

Then the winter came and frowned
On that little patch of ground,
Covered it with ice and snow;
Uglier it seemed to grow.
Bleak and desolate and bare
As if death itself were there.

Now the sunbeams come to toil
Busily above my soil,
And with sculptor's blows precise
Now they chip away the ice,
Melt with torch the frost and snow
So that every bulb may grow.

Through the black earth I can see
Beauty coming back to me,
Life in blossom shall unfold,
Red and pink and yellow gold!
Thus my tulips in the spring
Prove the faith to which I cling.

MR. & MRS. JACK SALDO & MRS. A. B. WOODSON

For two years Mrs. A. B. Woodson, wealthy society leader of Washington, D. C., sought her daughter, Mary, who had mysteriously disappeared. When she finally found her daughter, she found she was Mrs. Mary Seldo, wife of John Seldo, bakery wagon driver, living in a modest little flat in Brooklyn, N. Y. Hardly had the society dowager granted paternal forgiveness than Seldo was arrested on a charge of violating a parole in failing to report regularly after his release from the Elmira, N. Y., Reformatory, to which he had been sentenced on a burglary charge.

MAN HAS MIRACULOUS ESCAPE
"I was told by our family physician that I could not live with out an operation, as my liver and gall sack were in such a condition. I set the day to go to the hospital, but then I saw the advertisement of May's Wonderful Remedy. Since taking it I am feeling like a two-year-old. I am sure I never could have survived an operation." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at People's Drug Store and druggists everywhere.—adv.

Oiling of the state highways is to be completed by early June wherever possible, Secretary of Highways Paul D. Wright instructed highway inspectors and maintenance men in an annual conference of field employees of the state highway department here.

Last year the maintenance crews were under orders to finish the road oiling by July 1, and did so in all cases except where construction was under way and sent heavy traffic over detours. In many of the instances, the oiling was completed before July. Secretary Wright said the oiling is to be rushed so that it will be completed no later than the dates when it was finished last year.

The advantage of the early oiling is that it not only binds the roads for the summer months when tourist traffic is heavy, but also permits the roads to become dry before the tourists use the road, thus enabling them to escape the unpleasantness of driving through freshly oiled roads.

You Are Only As Large As Your Clothes Make You Look

Is it not therefor to your great interest to find those styles which are so carefully adopted for the larger figure by designers trained and experienced in this art? Your search can well end right here with us. Pleats and fulness are as good for the larger woman as for the smaller if employed in an artful manner. For instance, when they are concealed under inverted pleats or panels, thus giving the fashionable fulness and retaining the appearance of the straight line.

Choose an Easter Costume Of Excellent Design

Let us help you in the selection of your Easter costume which, of course, must be smart and modish. An Ensemble will be good, with coat of plain fabric and frock of printed silk. Another style ideal for the full figure is the ensemble dress, in which the coat part is camouflaged and not detachable. This department is filled with good-looking apparel, so there is a wide scope for your selection.

PRIVATE RUINS MAJOR'S PLANE

Ignorant of Flying, Borrows Airplane to Visit Folks, But Gets Year at Hard Labor.

Washington, March 25.—Private B. B. Elifritz, air service, stationed at Bolling Field, D. C., was seized Monday with an overpowering desire to see the folk at home. Failing to get official permission to leave his post, he sneaked upon an airplane landed by a major, gave it the gun and hopped off.

Elifritz was not a pilot and had never taken a plane off the ground. But what he lacked in knowledge and experience he made up in nerve. The plane took the air nicely, circled over the field a few times to warm up and then headed for home up in Pennsylvania.

Overlooks Closed Shutter

He overlooked the closed shutter on the radiator and had hardly got going nicely before the motor began to overheat. Any private working around a flying field knows this is a serious matter. So Elifritz abandoned his homeward journey and turned back toward the field. He nosed down neatly, but with too great dispatch, almost nipped a hangar and the earth rose up suddenly and hit the plane a wallop.

Elifritz climbed out of the wreckage unhurt and faced an audience comprising the major whose "ship" he had borrowed and virtually the entire personnel of Bolling Field.

Court-Martial Acts Promptly

An officer demanded to know why Elifritz had taken the plane up.

"I wanted to go home," was the half-sobbed reply.

A court-martial recommended a year at hard labor and dishonorable discharge from the service for Elifritz. The findings were submitted to the commandant of the Washington district for final action.

LITTLESTOWN

Littlestown.—Mrs. Clarence King and daughter, Charlotte, of Wilmington, Delaware, are spending some time as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keefer.

Sue Blind Heir

MISS CATHERINE BURKE

Miss Catherine Burke, thirty-five, a blind girl of New York, is being sued by thirteen heirs of the estate of the late Henry T. Keyser, to whom Miss Burke had been engaged. Miss Burke is the holder of a promissory note signed by Keyser for $150,000, which the heirs temporarily enjoined her from cashing or selling. Miss Burke's attorneys claim that shortly before his death Keyser was stricken with paralysis on the right side, necessitating that he write with his left hand, this accounting for the difference in signature.

ABBOTTSTOWN

Abbottstown.—Samuel Alwine and family will move from here to his farm in Paradise township, near Maple Grove, Tuesday, and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Moul and family will move into property vacated by Mr. Alwine.

The condition of Mrs. Theophilus Bievor, who has been ill for the past three weeks, from neuralgia and heart trouble, is worse. Sunday she had a depressing spell and is now seriously sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Hafer and son, Arthur, and Mrs. Donald Hafer and daughter, Ada, York, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hafer, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kinneman and son, John, McSherrytown; Mr. and Mrs. J. Oscar Kinneman, son, Francis, and daughter, Charlotte, Hanover, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kinneman, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Walker, sons, Norman and Raymond, Hunterstown, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walker, Sunday.

Miss Ruth Craumer spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Hanover.

Mrs. Theodore Altland, Paradise township, spent Sunday here with her son, William Altland, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lehigh, York, spent Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lehigh, and family.

Miss Evelyn Lawson, Pennville, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Craumer and family, Sunday.

Mrs. George Harman and Miss Delia Harman spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krout and family, near Farmers.
